Buys Great Fleet Of Planes To Build Up Air Commerce

ROY U. CONGER. Canada is to be the first country Canada is to be the first country which will practice commercial aviation on a great scale, says Roy U. Conger, of New York, who is going to direct the enterprise, and who, by a spectacular deal, has bought a great number of machines and engines and an enormous quantity of equipment.

Express matter with be carried, passengers will be transported, mall (if the Canadian government so whiches) will be taken through the skies, and it is also likely that forest rangers will patrol above the great woods of the dominion, and the famous Northwest mounted police may cover their territory in leather bucket scats aloft instead of astride horses.

When the news came out about Mr. Conger's immense purchase of flying When the news came out about Mr. Conger's immense purchase of flying riaterial, every one interested in aviation wanted to know what he intended to do with it. For a sum which he declines, to mention Mr. Conger obtained all the equipment of the royal air force which happened to be in Canada. This included 350 Curtis INA sirplanes (the type on which military flyers here and in the dominion were trained); 1,000 Curties engines of the OX-90 h. p. type, hundreds of propellers, wings and fuselages, and thousands of Lake parts. The total value of all this, it was said, was about $10,000,000, though Mr. Conger, of course, did not pay anything like that sum for it. "I will not say what was paid, but I feel certain the future will prove we got a bargain," he said, speaking for himself and his associates.

"I cannot give exact plans yet, either," Mr. Conger explained, "because I got into the thing in such a harry that there was no time to make exact arrangements for anything. But in a general way, we are going in for commercial aviation. Everyone knows commercial aviation, be coming but it believe it is coming very quickly. Before long there will be a lot of people wondering why they didn't get into it in time.

"As soon as we assemble the stock we will take an inventory and then begin to lay out aerial routes and arrange landing fields. We will start with light express matter, and later take passengers. Then, too, we may be able to carry the mail for the dominion government.

"There will be no difficulty about flyers causads sent overses more than 2,500 aviators, and most of these will be returni

Tight Skirts Delay Trains 17 Seconds; Street Cars, Too

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—Tight skirts worn by women passengers have used schedules on the railroads. The Pennsylvania railroad, with scientific accuracy, has found that since women have begun wearing light skirts the average stopping lime of a train at a station is now 17 seconds longer than it was when the skirts were short and roomy around the bottom.

In reply to a complaint of the South Jersey Commuters association that trains were not run on time the management gave this information and said that unless styles in skirts change very soon the running time of local trains must be lengthened.

The same is reported from street cars in many cities.
